However, I did find the inclusion of practice problems at the end of each section vs. all together the end of the whole chapter (which is the new arrangement in the 4th edition) to be a challenge - specifically, this made it difficult for me to identify easily where sections ended, and in some places, to follow the train of thought across sections. This could make it easier for students or ...

Here are some practice questions for research methods and statistics because, frankly, you can never have too many of them. I've written them to foreground the need to (1) calculate tests; and (2) refer to the contextual material in answers because these are key requirements of the Edexcel specification for RMS. However, they should be useful to pretty much anyone.
